

THE RELIGION AND DIVERSITY PROJECT/RELIGION ET DIVERSITÉ

Caelen Christine Salisbury-White
Queen's University, M.A. Candidate, School of Religion Supervisor: Pamela Dickey Young
e-mail: caelensalisburywhite@outlook.com

Bio and Research Statement

Caelen Salisbury-White is an M.A. Candidate in the Religious Studies Program at Queen's University. Having recently completed a combined honours B.A. at McMaster University in Religious Studies, Peace Studies, and Women's Studies (minor), Caelen is eager to jump into her role as a research assistant for the Religion, Gender and Sexuality Among Youth in Canada (RGSY) Project. Caelen's research interests include: Goddess representations, pilgrimage, daily ritual, tourism, the Divine feminine, new religion/non-religion, alternative spirituality, ancient Mesopotamian deities, fertility cults, human rights in history, conflict resolution, women in peace building, popular culture, and multi-disciplinary interconnectivity.